TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 20. 1739. No. 1142.

The MOCK PATRIOTS: Or, The KNIGHTS of the C--e-S--l. A Farce.

As it was acted at Dawley, in the County of Middlesex. In Imitation of Moliere.

By Port CABBAGE, Author of Ill Manners, &c.

Scene Dawley House.

SEVERAL Romish Priests and Jesuits, representing Upholsterers, enter to hang the Hall, and place the Chairs and Benches to slow Musick.

After this is done, a solemn Procession of Patriot Doctors, all in Sable, consisting of attainted Jacobites, discarded Courtiers, cashier'd Officers, bankrupt Citts, rioting Colliers, outlaw'd Smugglers, and Gin-drinking Basket-women, two by two, bearing Close-stools.

Then PIERROT, the Candidate, with a meagre, motheaten, envious Phiz, in his own Snake Locks, curl'd up with Persian Letters, with a large Feather in his Cap, and the Motto Ich Dien impudently set round it.

Parson Trapum, with the Royal Sin hanging at one Ear, and Ministerial Vertue at the other, with an English Translation of Virgil plaister'd to his Bum, and much dawb'd.

Port Major, representing a Satyr, bearing the President's Close-stool, and supported by two Minor Poets, viz. Cabbage and Great O.

Squire Squat, in a violent Sweat, foaming at the Mouth, with a drawn Sword in one Hand, and a distant Prospect of the Secretary's Office in the other, stamping, and shewing many Signs of vehement Passion.

Last of all the President, supported on the Right by Chevalier Windy, who bears a large Trumpet, with which he sounds furiously to Arms during the Procession; on the Left by Lord Epigram, who for want of a Kettle-Drum, keeps Time during the March with a Box and Dice.

The President is dress'd in a black Drab, lin'd with the Treaty of Utrecht, and turn'd up with Weepers made out of the dying Speeches of the massacred Catalans, holding the Pretender's Proclamation in one Hand, and a Key to betray the Pretender in the other. His Train is supported by the Authors of the Craftsman and Common Sense. The three Bards place the Close-stool with great Ceremony in the middle of the Stage, and the President being seated thereon, the Minor Poets plant themselves on each Side; and the Poet Major behind, with a large Parcel of his own Writings in his Hand, ready to apply them to a proper Use.

Pierrot, who is to be admitted Doctor in Patriotism, sits at squat on the Cover of the President's Stool at the lower End of the Stage.

Præses.

Learnediſſimi Doctores,
Patriotiſmæ Profeſſores,
Qui hic got together eſtis,
Et vos, Poeta major, eke Poætæ minores;
Libellorum & Journalorum Scribellatores,
Riotores, Smuglores, & Gin-Bibatores,
Cum omni Patriota & Bardo
Qui grumbellant in Gizardo.
Sint uncrop'd Aures, unſcourg'd Tergum,
Atque Cor ſtill Malcontentum.
Non poſſum docti confreri,
En moi ſatis admireri
Qualis bona Inventio
Eſt Patriotæ Profeſſio;
How great and wiſe a thing is noſtra
Oppoſitio, invidia, malitia, fruſtra;
Which for ſo longo Tempore
Has made in Clover vivere
So many Scribblers omni Genere.
Per totam Nationem videmus
Grandam Vogam ubi ſumus,
Et quod grandes & periſi
Sunt de nobis infatuti.
Totus Mundus legens noſtros Libellos,
Nos regardat ſicut Deos,
Et noſtris Ordonnanciis
Lordes & Communes ſubmiſſos videtis,
'Tis ergo noſtra ſapientia,
Bonus Senſus, atque Prudentia,
Strongly for to traviliare
A nos bene conſervare
In tali Credito, Vogo & Honore;
Et take curam non recevere
In noſtro Mal-contento Corpore
Quam Perſonas out-of-Places,
Bankrupt Citts, hack Poetas,
Dignas fillire has Cloſas Stoolas.
For that nunc convocati eſtis,
Et credo quod findebitis
Maliciam dignam Patriotis,
In macro Homine that here is.
Quem I in guilis omnibus
Dono ad interrogandum,
Et a Bottom examinandum
Veſtris Capacitatibus,

Primus Doctor.

Si mihi licentiam dat dominus Præſes,
Et tanti docti Doctores,
Et Poetæ major ac minores
Patriotæ learnidiſſimo,
Quem Eſtimo & Honoro,
Demandabo Cauſam, & Rationem quare
Patriotiſma facit grumbulare.

Pierrot.

Mihi a Docto Doctore
Demandatur Cauſam & Rationem quare
Partiotiſma facit Grumbulare.
To which reſpondeo,
Quia nullus Homo
Unquam Patriota efficitur
Si non ex Placis ejicitur;
Et ex Placis ejiciari
Facit omnes Grumbellare.

Chorus.

Bene bene reſpondere
Dignus dignus & entrare
In noſtro Mal-contento Corpore.
Bene bene reſpondere.

Secundus Doctor.

Cum Domini Præſidis permiſſione
Demandabo tibi, Grumbellator bone;
Quid ad Miniſtrum diſtreſſere
Oportet Patriota facere?

Pierrot.

Falſis Terroribus Populum implere,
Cum Crimis omnibus Miniſtrum aſperſere,
Schemas abſurdas inſinuare,
Veras, fortiter negare,
Et Regnum totum imbroillare.

Chorus.

Bene, bene, &c. ——

Tertius Doctor.

But ſi facit bonam Pacem,
Et ſecurat noſtram Tradem,
Sine recurſu ad Gladium;
Quid in Houſa tum agendum?

Pierrot.

Pacem decryare,
Furioſo debatare,
Poſtea dividare.

Chorus.

Bene, bene, &c.

Quartus Doctor.

Sed ſi Hoſtis non vult accommodare
At continuat plunderare
And Miniſter facit Bellum
Cum Flota expenſiva. —— Quid tum?

Pierrot.

Bellum decryare,
Furioſo debatare,
Poſtea dividare.

Chorus.

Bene, bene, &c.

Quintus Doctor.

But ſi R----x & P---m
Cum Miniſtro ſit contentum.
Et reſolvent facere acta,
Approbare ſua facta?

Pierrot.

R---m & P---m decryare,
Furioſo debatare,
Poſtea dividare,
Enſuita proteſtare,
Re-decryare, re-debatare, re-dividare, re-proteſtare.

Chorus.

Bene, bene, &c.

Sextus Doctor.

Super illas Anti-miniſtericas
Doctus Grumbellator dixit marvellas:
Sed ſi non ennuio Dominum præſidem,
Et Mobbam magnam ecoutantem,
Faciam illi unam Queſtionem.
Quid in ſtatu convenit facere
R---m & P---m ſubvertere?

Pierrot.

Soldieros drownare,
Officieros ſtrangulare,
Poſtea rebellare.

Chorus.

Bene, bene, &c.

Septimus Doctor.

Quid in eccleſia convenit facere,
Idem bonum Eudum obtinere?

Pierrot.

Epiſcopos ex Houſa turnare
Churcham in Confuſionem bringare,
Et pro Atheiſmate votare.

Chorus.

Bene, bene, &c.

Præſes.

Juras keepare Statuta
Per Mobbam præſcripta
Cum Malitia & Odio?

Pierrot.

Juro.

Præſes.

That thou'lt never te ſervire
De Doctrinis alienis
Quam Vindictis & Sanguinariis
Noſtræ implacabilis Facultatis;
Natio d'ut elle crevare,
Et Kingus, Lordes, & Communes abimare?

Pierrot.

Juro.

Præſes.

Ego cum Bonnetto iſto,
Alias Cloſa-ſtola Panno,
Dono tibi & concedo,
Vertutem & Puiſſantiam,
Frettandi,
Grumbellandi,
Speechandi,
Scriblandi,
Accuſandi,
Damnandi,
Inflammandi,
Riotandi,
Aſſaſſinandi,
Et Killandi
Miniſtrum primum & Fratrem ſuum,
Quorum Placæ Rite ſunt meum & tuum.

A grand Dance of Rioters, Smugglers and Basket-Women, who all make their Reverences to Pierrot.

Chorus.

Vivat, vivat, for ever vivat,
Nova Patriota, & manget & bibat.
Et ſpeechat & ſcribblat;
Et rebellat & killat.

Præſes.

May all his Anni
Be to him boni,
Et favorabiles,
Et non habere jamais,
Quam ſtrongas Oppoſitiones,
Terribiles Commotiones,
Horribiles Rebelliones,
Et poſtea Revolutiones.

They all riſe from their Seats, and make low Reverences to the Preſident and Pierrot.

Laſt of all the Preſident riſes from his Cl--e-S--l, and Poet Major wipes his P——s with the laſt Leaf of the Eſſay on Man.

Exeunt Omnes.

Anglice—— —— All out of Place.

Laſt

Laſt Night arriv'd a Mail from Holland.

THEY write from Naples, that Street-Robberies have lately been ſo frequent in that City, in which ſome of the Soldiery there have been detected as Agents, that all the Soldiers are ſtrictly prohibited, by an Edict, to be ſeen in the Streets an Hour after Sun-ſet, on pain of being committed to the Gallies.

From Rome they write, that on the 22d ult. O. S. Te Deum was ſung there for the Preſervation of that City from the terrible Earthquake which happen'd in thoſe Parts upon that Day of the Year 1708. And that in a Congregation of the Cardinals, it has been reſolv'd, that the Jews reſiding in that City ſhall be excus'd from paying the Tax of 2000 Crowns a Month, provided they pay down 12000 once for all. The Prince or King of Morocco, who went to Rome ſome time ago for Refuge, died there the 24th, after a tedious Illneſs, and has left all his Effects to his Wife, on Condition that ſhe engages never to marry again; or elſe all he has left is to go to the Fryars of the Order of St. Francis de Paul.

Letters of Jan. 24. O. S. from Belgrade ſay, that at two o'Clock that Afternoon they had an Earthquake for ſome Minutes, which did no other Damage beſides throwing down ſome Chimnies; but that it began again at ſix, when the Poſt came off, and left all the Inhabitants in a terrrible Conſternation.

The Velt Marſhal de Wallis is arriv'd from Preſbourg at Vienna, and the Day after he came had a long Conference with the Emperor in his Cloſet.

IRELAND.

Dublin, Feb. 13. Laſt Week ſeveral Houſes in this City were broke open and robb'd of Plate, Linnen, and other Goods of Value.

They write from Clare, that Mr. Dee of that County, was lately murdered in his Houſe by ſome of his Relations, who carried off with them 95 l. but have ſince been taken and committed to Limerick Gaol.

Yeſterday Mr. Corr was burnt in the Hand at the King's Bench Bar, purſuant to the Special Verdict of Manſlaughter paſs'd on him at the ſame time by the Judges for the Murder of the Corporal in the Four Court Marſhalſea, who was one of the Main-Guard call'd to quell the Inſurrection of the Priſoners; and he is to find Security for his good Behaviour during Life.

Laſt Sunday died at the Caſtle of Antrim, the Lord Viſcount Maſſareen.

A Treaty of Marriage is very near being concluded between Mr. George Thwaites, only Son of William Thwaites, Eſq; an eminent Silk Merchant of this City, and one of his Majeſty's Juſtices of the Peace, and Miſs Dodridge, the Daughter of a celebrated Brewer of that Name, who will bring him, with great Beauty and Accompliſhments, a Fortune of 3000 l.

We hear that a Commiſſion came over Yeſterday from England for the Trial of the Lord Santry; and that the Lord Chancellor is appointed Lord Preſident.

We are aſſur'd that Mr. Tottenham, being in Bed at a Gentleman's Houſe in the County of Wexford, was awaked out of his Sleep, by painful Twitches on his Face, and ſeveral other Parts of his Body. Not knowing the Cauſe, he call'd out, and rais'd ſome of the Family: A Servant coming in, was much ſurpriz'd on ſeeing a great Multitude of the foreign Rats (commonly called Norway Rats) about him, which had attempted to devour him.

A Piece of Cheeſe was laid in the Chamber, with Rat-bane upon it, which, the next Day, a Child happening to eat, was poiſon'd.

SCOTLAND.

Edinburgh, Feb. 13. Friday the Comedians were heard by their Council before the Lords of Seſſion; ſeveral Objections were propoſed, one of them relating to the Informality of the Execution of the Summons, was over-ruled by the Court, another was ſuſtained, viz. That Mrs. Woodward was not liable to the Law, in regard her Husband had not been cited for his Intereſt: That ſhe was actually married was offered to be proven; but the Council on the other Side, to ſave Time, deſiſted from their Complaint relating to her, and deſired their Lordſhips Judgment as to the reſt; on which the Lawyers for the Comedians obſerved, That theſe poor Men could not be within the Statute, except it was proven they acted for Hire; and they offered to prove, That the Night they acted, as mentioned in the Complaint, was a Benefit for Mrs. Woodward, againſt whom the Purſuers had withdrawn their Suit, and that they had not received a Farthing of the Money that had been then collected. The Lords ordered the Proof to be be brought againſt Tueſday, and allowed the Comedians a conjunct Probation, whether they had acted on the Night complained, or not.

Laſt Week died George Hepburn, Eſq; of Montcraig. He was taken ſuddenly ill on Wedneſday at Ten at Night, and expired before One on Thurſday Morning. He has left only one Daughter behind him by his Lady, Siſter to the Lord Juſtice Clerk.

Yeſterday there was a Cauſe tried in Exchequer, his Majeſty Plaintiff, and ſome Merchants in Frazerſburgh Defendants, the Subject being about 700 l. Sterl. worth of Spirits, &c. ſeized by Capt. Tucker; and after a full Trial, the Jury brought in a Verdict for the King. It was argued for the principal Claimant of the Goods, That he had been ſeiz'd with a ſudden Sickneſs, (an Atteſtation whereof was produced under the Hand of the Miniſter of the Pariſh, but was not thought probative) ſo could not go about his Affairs, or ſend up his Evidences, &c. And as this was the firſt Caſe tried upon the late penal Statute, it was argued that the Court ought to have the whole Caſe before them, and in order to that, urged the Trial might be put off till next Term. But the Court had no Regard to theſe Defences, looking upon them as eluſory.
